

Plot Studies of Coastal Ecosystems on Long Island's North Shore A Long Island Sound Teacher Mentor Workshop

Sands Point Preserve Conservancy, Sands Point, NY

October 12, 2019, 9AM-3:00PM

Bring a bagged lunch

Dress for the outdoors!

- * Geared towards educators of students in grades 5-10.
- * Complete hands-on activities related to the ecology, environment, and life cycles of coastal ecosystems of the Long Island Sound.
- * NGSS-aligned lessons, teaching materials, and explorations.
- * Engage students with on-site plot studies.
- * Examine effects of erosion and deposition in situ and through classroom activities.
- * Analyze samples through microscopic studies.
- * Take-home curriculum materials, resources, samples, technology, and more.
- * Receive 6 hours Professional Development Credit!

Register HERE

Or online at: www.nyseagrant.org/mentorteacherplotstudies

Bring a cell phone or iPad, and download iNaturalist and Google Science Journal apps in advance. Contact LISS to register.

For More information contact NYSG's LISS
Outreach Coordinator: Jimena Perez-Viscasillas; jbp255@cornell.edu; 631-632-8730